

ACADEMIC SENATE
of
THE CALIFORNIA STATE UNIVERSITY

Item 2

AS-2640-04/TEKR
January 22-23, 2004

California State University Center of Excellence in the Study of the Holocaust, Genocide, Human Rights and Tolerance

- RESOLVED: That the Academic Senate of the California State University (CSU) support the removal of the sunset provision in the Holocaust, Genocide, Human Rights and Tolerance Act of 2003 as contained in Assembly Bill 1175; and be it further
- RESOLVED: That the Academic Senate CSU support the addition of language to AB 1175 that will require the Center have a reporting relationship, for administrative purposes, at a specific CSU campus; and be it further
- RESOLVED: That the Academic Senate CSU support the elimination of language that designates participation of specific campuses; and be it further
- RESOLVED: That no state general funds be used for the Center for at least two years.

RATIONALE: Since the early 1990s the State of California has mandated that the teaching of the Holocaust and genocide be done in grades 7-12. In the years since the passage of that legislation, teacher preparation in this area has been erratic and spotty. To rectify that problem at the urging of faculty from the CSU and supported by the Academic Senate CSU and other groups, the legislature passed AB 2003, the Holocaust, Genocide, Human Rights and Tolerance Act in the fall of 2002. AB 2003 created a state taskforce on Holocaust and Genocide Education and a center at CSU Chico. The Center has been functioning now for one year and has received over $190,000 in grants and donations in its first year and an additional $100,000 before its second year. More than 300 teachers have been trained in workshops and six workshops are scheduled for the spring of 2004. A web site has been created in cooperation with the Department of Education of the State of California. Removing the sunset clause enables the center and the taskforce to continue as long as funding from external sources is available. The clause regarding funding acknowledges the fundraising success of the Center and makes sure that during this budget crisis no state funds will be used to support the Center. Finally, the resolution supports the idea that the Center will be open to involvement of any faculty from the CSU who have the qualifications and desire to participate.

LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL'S DIGEST

AB 1175, as amended, Koretz. The Holocaust and genocide.

Existing law, known as the Holocaust, Genocide, Human Rights, and Tolerance Education Act of 2003, establishes the California Taskforce on Holocaust, Genocide, Human Rights, and Tolerance Education, as an advisory body, and establishes the Center for Excellence on the Study of the Holocaust, Genocide, Human Rights, and Tolerance as a pilot program at the California State University, Chico, to promote education regarding the Holocaust, genocide, human rights, and tolerance. ~~Existing law requires the center to prepare and submit a report to the Secretary of Education, the Governor, and the Legislature, regarding, among other things, the activities of the center and its progress in achieving specified goals, no later than January 31, 2004.~~ Existing law repeals the Holocaust, Genocide, Human Rights, and Tolerance Education Act of 2003 on January 1, 2005.

This bill would expand the center to the California State University generally, remove references to the pilot program, ~~extend the deadline for submission of the center’s report to January 31, 2005,~~ and delete the repeal date of the act, thereby extending the operation of the act indefinitely. The bill would enact restrictions concerning the receipt of state funding for the center.
