COMMITTEE ON ORGANIZATION AND RULES

Proposed Permanent Change in Placement of Public Comment at Board Meetings

Presentation By

Christine Helwick
General Counsel

Summary

In March, the Board implemented on an experimental basis, a change in the order of business for the next three meetings. The public comment period was moved up from the end of the plenary session agenda to just after the roll is taken, and also was limited to 30 minutes. The first meeting implementing this change took place in May. A permanent change in the Trustees’ Rules must be presented once for information, and at a subsequent meeting for action. This item is presented for information now, so the Board can take action in September to make the experimental change permanent, if it determines that the change has proved to be a useful way to balance the competing interests in gaining broad public input while at the same time completing business in a reasonable amount of time.

Background

The Bagley-Keene Open Meetings Act applicable to CSU Board of Trustee meetings mandates an opportunity for the public to address items on Committee and Board agendas, and also gives the Board discretion to receive other public testimony. Until the experimental change in the order of business implemented in March 2005, the Board had traditionally received public comments, unrelated to items on the agenda, at the close of its business and just before the Board meeting adjourned. This placement proved frustrating to speakers, inconvenient for Trustees, and was difficult to bracket in time. It also resulted in speakers appearing after Trustees had departed, and adjournment of the Board meetings on a particularly low note.

This item is presented for information at this meeting, in order to allow the Board to take action at the September 2005 meeting to amend the Rules and make permanent the relocation of the public comment period in the order of business at Board meetings. The proposed Rule change would move the public comment period on items unrelated to the agenda to just after the roll is taken in the plenary session and before the Board undertakes its business agenda, and limit the time for public comment to 30 minutes. The time would be coordinated and allocated amongst individual speakers and/or specific issues in advance, depending on the number of speakers who sign up and the topics they wish to address. The public would be advised of the time limitation, and individual speakers would be advised of their own time allocations in advance. Staff would continue to coordinate with all speakers to ensure that the Board receives the broadest input on issues, while still allotting sufficient time to complete its regular business. The Chair would have discretion to extend the 30 minute time limit in unusual circumstances.
