DISTINGUISHING CHARACTERISTICS:
This class is distinguished from the Administrative Trainee class by the fact that it is an advanced trainee level whereas the Administrative Trainee is for entrance level positions.

Examples of Typical Activities:
The purpose of the training assignment is to provide a greater depth of understanding and familiarity with the organization and programs of the campus, as well as to provide the opportunity to apply personnel principles, procedures and techniques to actual operating situations. Generally, the assignments are specifically selected so that the individuals may apply a gradually increasing knowledge of, and skill in, securing, analyzing and evaluating the facts upon which recommendations on appropriate courses of action are made. Training involves reading and discussing the fundamentals of personnel management and the techniques of position classification, recruiting, training, employee relations program and benefits.

Assignments in position classification generally deal with entrance level clerical and trades classes or with other classes of positions where the classification determinations can be made by direct application of specific standards or other established evaluation guides.

Incumbents receive staffing assignments which generally deal with classes of positions in which qualifying work experience is relatively easy to identify and evaluate and promotional career patterns are well defined. Also, incumbents at this level may review position vacancies and identify special qualifications required, or review position descriptions to determine if any changes have occulted in the positions since they were last filled.

Individuals in positions in this class are provided with detailed instructions with each assignment and the completed work is reviewed closely.

Personal contacts at this level are limited and are mainly to obtain and exchange information, answer specific questions and to explain well established policies, procedures, or standards.
