Public Comment

Chair Bleich called for public comment. The following individuals addressed the Board of Trustees: Pat Hallahan, SETC chief consultant, commented about the benefits of utilizing CSU resources to the maximum including CSU employees and also spoke against contracting out; John Howard, SETC president, also spoke against contracting out and urged the CSU to use SETC workers to make campuses more efficient; John Skiles, SETC member also voiced his opposition to contracting out; Kim Geron, CFA vice president, stated his appreciation to those members of the board who went out to interact with the CFA faculty during the morning protest; Cecil Canton, CFA Associate vice president affirmative action, stated that during this difficult time the CSU should work together with the union to protect employees; Lillian Taiz, CFA president stated that the CFA would continue to invest time, energy and resources to fight for education against legislators who wish to solve the budget crisis by cuts alone; John Travis, CFA political action/legislation chair, noted that the CSU and the CFA should continue working together toward an agreement so that protracted bargaining negotiations do not take away from the budget fight; Pat Gantt, CSUEU president, noted that the CSU and the union should work together to change the political landscape; Dennis Dillon, CSUEU vice president, stated that impaction is important to students and that lost staff will affect student services and urged the board to do what is needed to keep workloads manageable on campuses; Crenshaw Cottrell, CSUDH and CSU Students for Quality Education stated that cuts to programs have terrible consequences for students and that the CSU is the only hope that many students have for a future; Barbara Talalemotu, CSUDH and CSU Students for Quality Education, thanked the chancellor for his message of hope and also stated that the CSU is the light at the end of the tunnel for many students like herself but that cuts in programs are affecting many students who are unable to take the courses they need.
