Revenue collected from miscellaneous course fees are to be deposited either in the General Fund or in a local trust account, depending on the nature of the fee. Pursuant to Education Code Section 89721(g), revenue collected may be deposited in a local trust account where the fee is required of those persons who, at their option, use the services or facilities, or are provided the materials, for which the fee is collected. In other words, if the student has the option to procure the service, facility, or material for which the fee is charged on the open market or some other way separate from the university and still fulfill the requirements of the university course, the revenue may be deposited in trust. Fees so deposited shall be used solely to meet the costs of providing these services, materials, and facilities. Otherwise, pursuant to Section 89724(a) of the Education Code, revenue collected from the miscellaneous course fee shall be deposited in the State Treasury and credited to the General Fund for the support of the university in addition to such other amounts as may be appropriated therefor by the Legislature.

Revenue collected from continuing education course fees may be deposited in the State University Continuing Education Revenue Fund in the State Treasury. Alternatively, pursuant to Education Code Section 89721(i), the revenue from continuing education fees may be deposited in a local trust account. In either case, the fee revenues are appropriated for the support and development of self-instructional programs of the California State University.
